

HDT today announced the closing of its Buena Vista, Virginia manufacturing facility effective December 31, 2016. Those operations will transition to our Huntsville, Alabama location. Additionally, we announced our plans to consolidate operations in the Fredericksburg/Spotsylvania Virginia area to a new built-for-purpose facility, which will expand our capabilities and facilitate innovation and product development. These strategic decisions were thoughtfully made, with the benefit to the warfighter and to the organization at the forefront.

Our strategy will provide for future success, increased organizational and manufacturing efficiencies, improved responsiveness to our customers, and ultimately increased opportunity for our employees' career growth and development. Our employees are our greatest asset, and with team work and engagement we intend to make this transition as easy as possible.
